

ly responded with an aggressive campaign to identify and assist any parishioner harmed in any way by the actions of Pritchard or anyone else in authority in the parish at any time.

Although Pritchard died of cancer in 1988 and had no contact with anyone currently in the school, St. Nicholas Principal Mary Williams Coyle addressed the eighth-grade students the day Kannengeiser considered Pritchard "a close personal friend" as well as pastor.

He said that there was "never anything untoward" (in Pritchard's conduct), no gossip, no innuendo" from the boys.

Thomas spoke to the congregations at all the Masses April 27 and 28.

He summarized the information and the results of his own forming peacemaking priests into another vulnerable community.

Suggestions to be implemented in the parish immediately include: publishing notes from the forum; having Thomas and the school faculty talk with all grade levels to address their questions and ease their fears in a developmentally appropriate way and keep the communication open.
