IV. RAB Minutes on the Internet

Bill Dougherty led a discussion on the distribution of RAB minutes on the Internet. Bill expressed his feeling that it is a great way to share information with the local community and the larger environmental community as a whole. If one organization sees that the base is using a technology they haven't heard of, they can share clean up ideas.

Ron Hoenstine likes the idea and would like to see final documents like the executive summary for Proposed Plans, etc.

Mark Reasoner thought fact sheets would also be good on the web site.

Lissa Miller suggested that a listing of all documents available at the information repository be listed.

Bill Dougherty will give an update on RAB minutes on the Internet at the next meeting.

V. John Austin Presentation

Mr. John Austin volunteered to give information to RAB members concerning the contaminated property on 103rd Street purchased by the Navy. He has information concerning the Navy pipeline, which leaked, and expressed concern about the length of time for the cleanup of the property.
