Performance Monitoring and Sampling Plan (PM&SP) - Quarterly Report #3
Naval Training Center (NTC), Orlando, Florida
CTO 107, Contract No. N62467-89-D-031/107

Dear Ms. Nwokike:

Harding Lawson Associates (HLA) has completed the third quarter of activities described in the Performance Monitoring and Sampling Plan (PM&SP) located in Appendix B of the Interim Remedial Action (IRA): Conceptual Design and Performance Specification, Operable Unit 4 (OU 4). A brief background of the site history and conditions at OU 4, as well as a technology description of the recirculation wells can also be found in that document.

The objective of the PM&SP is to collect field sampling data and report the results to evaluate the effectiveness of the IRA. The first quarterly report was issued on April 16, 1998, and covered the period from December 10, 1997 through March 12, 1998. The second quarterly report covered the period from May 15, 1998 through August 31, 1998. This third quarterly report covers the period from September 1, 1998 through December 31, 1998. Only three quarterly reports were issued during the first year of operation, as several system shutdowns required stretching of the monitoring periods to allow time to collect sufficient data to adequately evaluate system operation

This quarterly report will discuss the following: system operation activities; hydraulic performance, groundwater contaminant concentrations in the influent and effluent of the treatment system(s), air emissions produced by the treatment system(s), groundwater contaminant concentrations in downgradient monitoring wells and drive points, conclusions and recommendations, and projected activities for the next quarter.

SYSTEM OPERATION

The OU 4 IRA treatment system consists of two recirculation wells designated UVB-1 and UVB-2 as shown in Figure 1. The treatment system was started on December 10, 1997. The details of the subsequent system operation through August 31, 1998 are included in the first and second quarterly monitoring reports.

As discussed in the second quarterly report, the recirculation wells began to experience degradation of performance due to the entry of fine silt into the wells during July and August 1998. The ensuing low flow rates (estimated between 1 and 3 gallons per minute [gpm]) continued into September and October 1998. SBP and Bechtel were developing plans to modify the IRA to address this problem when SBP declared bankruptcy in late September 1998. Roy F Weston (Weston) assumed SBP's responsibilities and continued to work with Bechtel and HLA to implement the system modifications. Both recirculation wells were shut down on November 9, 1998 for maintenance, including redevelopment, upper screen replacement, reinjection system improvements, and addition of a biocide to prevent biofouling. UVB-1 was restarted on November 24, and UVB-2 was restarted on December 9. At the end of this reporting period (December 31, 1998), both recirculation wells were operable, and Bechtel and Weston were engaged in optimizing the systems and returning the IRA to continuous operation.

IRA MODIFICATIONS

The primary operational difficulties experienced by the IRA included entry of fine silt into the wells, and high re-injection pressures limiting flow rates. To prevent the fine silt from clogging the system pumps and reinjection screen, a second pre-packed screen was installed in the upper half of each recirculation well. The filter pack of this new screen was considerably finer than the filter pack used when the recirculation wells were initially installed. The submersible extraction pump was then lowered into the new upper screen. It was expected that any silt entering the wells would collect in the annulus between the new pre-packed screen and the well casing.

An external groundwater storage/reinjection tank was also added in an attempt to address the low injection flowrates due to excessive injection head. The addition of the external tank served two purposes. First, because treated groundwater now flows out of the internal stripper and into the external tank by gravity, the water level in the stripper is maintained constant. This serves to maximize the residence time of contaminated groundwater in the stripper, which should improve stripping efficiency. Secondly, the new external tank permitted the installation of a larger reinjection pump with greater head capability. The original reinjection pumps were housed within the small sump of the internal stripper, which limited the size of the pumps. It was expected that the new pump would allow the IRA to operate at reinjection flows in the 6 to 8 gpm range.

A more detailed summary of the modifications and field activities performed during this period can be provided by Bechtel.

HYDRAULIC PERFORMANCE

As in the previous two quarterly reports, the head response study was used to evaluate and verify the zone of influence generated by the treatment systems. Head response was monitored in six wells adjacent to UVB-1 and two wells near UVB-2.

The eight wells being monitored are arranged in four clusters of two wells as shown on Figure 1. Three clusters monitor the hydraulic performance of UVB-1: OLD-13-OW6A and OLD-13-OW7C, OLD-13-OW8A and OLD-13-OW9C, and OLD-13-OW10A and OLD-13-OW11C.

These clusters are located north of UVB-1 approximately 50, 30, and 15 feet, respectively. OLD-13-OW12A and OLD-13-OW13C are located approximately 15 feet south of UVB-2, and monitor UVB-2's performance. Each cluster is made up of one shallow (A-interval) well screened from 6 to 11 feet below land surface (bls) and one deep (C-interval) well screened from 40 to 45 feet bls. The shallow wells are influenced by the groundwater extracted by each recirculation well, while the deeper wells in each cluster monitor the zone at which the treated water is being returned to the aquifer. This extraction/injection process creates an upward circulation pattern in the aquifer, resulting in a water level differential between the shallow and deep piezometers. The magnitude of the differential is a function of the recirculation rate.

All eight observation wells are currently being monitored using TROLLs Model SP4000, manufactured by In-Situ Incorporated. An SP4000 is also in each recirculation well to monitor drawdown. The Troll in –OW7C failed in mid-October. However, because this piezometer is located farthest from UVB-1, the loss of this Troll did not have a significant affect in the ability to monitor the hydraulic performance of the recirculation well.

The comprehensive water level data tables are found in Attachment A.

Hydrographs showing water level elevations versus date are included in Attachment B. Note that the dates are referenced to the beginning of the third quarter on September 1, 1998. Hydrographs are provided for each well pair: OLD-13-OW06A/OLD-13-OW7C, -OW8A/-OW9C, -OW10A/-OW11C, and -OW12A/-OW13C. Water levels for both UVB-1 and UVB-2 are also included. A plot of rainfall data for the same time period is also attached. This information helps to distinguish between the natural fluctuations of the water level due to precipitation and the effects that the treatment system has on the surficial aquifer.

The daily rainfall data was obtained from the National Weather Service, which operates a weather station at the Orlando International Airport (OIA), beginning September 1998. OIA is located approximately 15 miles south-southeast of the site. All rainfall data is included in Attachment C.

Wells –OW10A and –OW11C are located 15 feet from UVB-1, and therefore exhibit the greatest response to pumping rate in that recirculation well. Well pairs –OW 8A/-OW9C and –OW6A/-OW7C respond to a lesser extent because of the increasing distance from UVB-1. The head differential in -OW10A/-OW11C was approximately 0.6 feet at the beginning of this period. However, the performance of UVB-1 slowly deteriorated during September. This is shown by the increasing water level in UVB-1 and the corresponding decrease in the head differential between –OW10A/-OW11C. From the end of September until the November 9 shutdown, UVB-1 alternated between several relatively short periods of running and non-running conditions. Flowrates are believed to have been fairly low (1 to 3 gpm), as borne out by the minimal head differential between –OW10A/-OW11C. The low flows also reduced the size of the recirculation cell around UVB-1, as shown by the lack of response of the -OW6A/-OW7C piezometer pair during this period (up until the failure of the –OW7C Troll).

In general, UVB-2 was also operating at extremely low flows prior to the modifications. The UVB-2 hydrograph indicates little if any drawdown for the first three weeks of September. This behavior is consistent with siltation of the pump impellers. This was confirmed during a maintenance visit in late September. UVB-2 was not operating from late September to mid-October. At this point, a maintenance visit restored UVB-2 to operation. The hydrograph for -OW12/-OW13 shows very little head differential between these piezometers until mid-October. This indicates that a recirculation cell had not formed until this time, and is further evidence that although UVB-2 may have been operating, it was likely with limited effectiveness.

INFLUENT AND EFFLUENT DATA

Water samples were collected from the influent and effluent ports of UVB-1 on September 29, 1998. The samples were collected in 40 milliliter (ml) vials preserved with hydrochloric acid (HCL) and shipped to an offsite laboratory for analysis using United States Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA) Method 8021 for volatile organic compounds (VOCs). A table summarizing the results of this sampling event can be found in Attachment D. This data was collected to measure the efficiency of the recirculation wells and ensure treated groundwater met proper discharge criteria. Unfortunately, UVB-2 was not operating during this sampling event, and no influent/effluent samples were collected.

The efficiency of the stripping wells can be determined by comparing the influent and effluent total VOC concentrations. The stripping efficiency for UVB-1 was 89 percent, which is comparable to previous sampling events. However, the samples were collected prior to the system modifications. The addition of the external reinjection tank should have increased residence time in the stripper, and therefore improved the stripping efficiency. This will be evaluated during the next quarter.

Table 1-1 from the IRA: Conceptual Design and Performance Specification, OU 4 defined the treatment sphere discharge criteria for tetrachloroethene (PCE) as 8 µg/l, trichloroethene (TCE) as 80 µg/l, and total 1,2-DCE as 70 µg/l. These discharge criteria were established based on Florida's Surface Water Quality Standards for chemicals with an assigned standard. All other effluent contaminants of concern should meet Florida's maximum contaminant levels, where applicable.

The effluent discharge criteria for total 1,2-DCE at UVB-1 was exceeded on September 29 (110 µg/l). The total influent VOC concentrations measured at UVB-1 were 1140 µg/l.

MONITORING AND DRIVE POINT WELLS

The drive point wells and monitoring wells were sampled on September 29, 1998. The samples were analyzed at an offsite laboratory for halogenated VOCs using USEPA Method 8021. A summary of the VOC results is found in Attachment D.

Monitoring wells that were sampled were OLD-13-09A and OLD-13-22B. The drive points that were sampled were DP-2 and DP-5.

Monitoring well OLD-13-09A is located approximately 100 feet west of UVB-1 at the edge of Lake Druid. Laboratory analytical results from this quarter indicate total VOC concentrations of 718 µg/l. This represents the lowest concentration of VOCs detected in OLD-13-09A, continuing the downward trend observed since May 1998 (then total VOCs of 3,890 µg/l) (Figure 2).

Monitoring well OLD-13-22B is located approximately 20 feet south of UVB-1, and is screened within the recirculation cell from 27 to 32 feet bls. The VOC concentrations in this well decreased from 116 µg/l in July 1998 to 48 µg/l during this quarter. Because OLD-13-22B is located directly within the UVB-1 recirculation cell and is screened near the lower discharge screen, the VOC concentrations in this well react quickly to changes in UVB-1 operation.

Laboratory analytical results for Lake Druid drive point well DP-2 indicate a decrease in total VOC concentrations from 1,380 µg/l on August 18 to 1,097 µg/l on September 29. Total VOC concentrations in groundwater collected from DP-5 decreased from 550 µg/l on August 18 to 495 µg/l on September 29. These total VOC concentrations in each drive point are the lowest recorded for these locations during the IRA monitoring program (Figure 2).

The overall trend of VOC concentrations in all downgradient monitoring wells and drive points has continued downward (Figure 2) when compared to data collected during the previous monitoring periods.

AIR EMISSIONS

Offgas samples were collected for the first quarterly report on February 4 and February 19, 1998 from both systems and analyzed for VOCs using USEPA Method TO14. The total mass of contaminants emitted from both UVB-1 and UVB-2 combined was less than 0.2 pounds per day. Since recirculation rates and the influent/effluent concentrations of VOCs have generally decreased from the first quarter, it can be assumed that emissions are still far below the FDEP maximum limit of 13.7 pounds per day.

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Despite the difficulties in maintaining the hydraulic performance of the IRA, downgradient VOC concentrations have continued to decrease, indicating that the recirculation wells have succeeded in reducing the mass of contaminants discharging to Lake Druid. System modifications were made during this 3rd quarter to further improve the stripping efficiency and hydraulic performance of the recirculation wells.

In closing, further monitoring of the treatment systems' influent and effluent data will be performed during the fourth quarter. If you have questions or comments regarding this matter, please call Mark Salvetti at (781) 245-6606.
