

Naval Air Station Pensacola Installation Restoration Program

This fact sheet is one in a series designed to inform interested citizens about environmental investigations and remedial actions at NAS Pensacola. Other fact sheets will be written at appropriate points in the program and in response to public interest. Distribution is coordinated through the Public Affairs Office at NAS Pensacola, (904) 452-2311.

INFORMATION REPOSITORY STATUS UPDATE

As part of its commitment to the Pensacola community, Naval Air Station Pensacola maintains a collection of documents related to its environmental Installation Restoration Program. This collection, available to the public, is called an "Information Repository."

The repository for NAS Pensacola includes environmental reports, maps, sampling results, work plans, and other technical information about the environmental cleanup efforts taking place under the Navy's Installation Restoration Program (IRP). Also included are fact sheets such as this, a Community Relations Plan, other documents pertinent to the cleanup program, and information about the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Technical Assistance Grants Program.

To ensure information is accessible to the public, the repositories are placed in the reference section of area libraries. All information in the repositories is public and may be photocopied at a small fee for personal reference.

Until recently, repositories were established at three locations. As of July 10, 1997, the West Florida Regional Library on Gregory Street in Pensacola stopped housing the collection, leaving the two locations listed below.
