SUBJECT: No Further Action for Total Petroleum Hydrocarbons at the Former North Building Ways Area Within Investigation Area A2
Former Mare Island Naval Shipyard
Vallejo, California

Dear Mr. Bloom:

The Former North Building Ways Area is located within Investigation Area A2 in the northeastern portion of Mare Island. Currently, the FNBW site is vacant and primarily overgrown with vegetation. Based on results of previous investigations between 1997 and 2003, total petroleum hydrocarbons (TPH) were detected in soil across the site, and appear to be from non-point sources.

Seventeen excavations were completed in 2009 to remove soil impacted with TPH as motor oil. Confirmation soil sample results indicated TPH as motor oil-impacted soil had been removed to below the established Tier 2 residential screening levels for soil (500 milligrams per kilogram).

Based upon the available information, including the current and proposed land use, and with the provision that the information provided to this agency was accurate and representative of site conditions, no further action related petroleum hydrocarbons at the subject site is required. Additionally, the Water Board may reconsider this finding should new information be discovered regarding previously undetected contamination. The Water Board shall be notified of any changes in future land use.

If you have any questions, please contact Paisha Jorgensen of my staff at (510) 622-2756 or pjorgensen@waterboards.ca.gov.
